RE: MAKING READING FUN: Oxford Owl Reading Resource at home

Dear Parents and Carers,

At Park Community School we value reading and we are continually looking at ways to provide opportunities for children to access and use a range of reading materials both at home and at school. We want children to develop a real love and enjoyment for reading from an early age as reading can open up new worlds and new information to every child. As a result we have created class accounts on Oxford Owl, run by Oxford University Press, so now all children can login in and access an extensive range of online reading material at home via the internet (on a computer, laptop, or phone).

Your child has a username and password in their reading records now so have a look for it. Please take the time to log in with them and explore the resources available. Then all your child has to do is find some books they enjoy and get reading!

A link to the website has been put on your class notice board on our website. Once you have clicked on this and the page has opened there will be a button at the top of the page saying 'My Class Login', click on that and enter the username and password provided.

Happy reading!

Mr Collins
